The Bulldog Club of America was the first Bulldog specialty club organized in this country, and therefore, properly referred to as the Parent Club. A Mr. H. D. Kendall of Lowell, Massachusetts initially conceived the formation of a Bulldog Club of America as far back as 1890. Its long existence is the result of a determination on his part, as well as that of other exhibitors of that day. To join together for the purpose of encouraging the thoughtful and careful breeding of the English Bulldog in America, to perpetuate the purity of the strain, to improve the quality of native stock and to remove the undeserved prejudice that existed in the public mind against a most admirable breed.
